

Performance Bonds Online Website Quote Disclaimer

In obtaining this quotation, the user hereby agrees that:

Any figures quoted are solely for indicative purposes and should not be taken as any offer to actually issue a bond. A firm quotation will only be issued following a satisfactory application.

The figures quoted are intended as a general guideline. In the event of Performance Bonds Online issuing a formal quotation the exact premium will be calculated by reference to information provided such as track record, experience, financial strength, contract size, and other relevant factors and is solely at the discretion of the insurer or its agent.

The information used to provide this quote will need to be verified by the insurer or its agent and further details will be required including but not being limited to:

- latest accounts
- contract details / experience
- financial info re: bank accounts direct from banker
- contract info from architects or designers

Furthermore we may also require a face to face meeting at clients' premises

It should be noted that in the event that a bond is to be issued, it will not be released unless payment has been received in full by the insurer or its agent.

Performance Bonds Online and any of the insurers with which it has business hereby reserve the right to decline any application for a bond for which a quote has been sought on its website or to vary the terms of such bond. For the avoidance of doubt, Performance Bonds Online and any of the insurers with which it has business are no obligation to offer terms on any applications for a quotation on this website
